BIOGRAPHY

Christy K. Wilder

Christy K. Wilder was appointed as the Deputy Manager of the National Background Investigations Bureau (NBIB) Transition Team in March 2016. This interagency team is charged with supporting the President's goal of reforming the security clearance process and establishing a new federal entity to strengthen how the US Government performs background investigations. Ms. Wilder comes to the interagency Transition Team from the Office of the Director of National Intelligence (ODNI). Prior to joining the team, she worked for the Office of Legislative Affairs supporting the National Counterintelligence and Security Center (NCSC) as the principal interface to Congress on matters of government-wide counterintelligence and security initiatives.

Ms. Wilder began her federal career in March 2003 as a Special Agent conducting background investigations for the Defense Security Service, Department of Defense (DoD). In 2005, Ms. Wilder transferred to the Federal Investigative Services (FIS), Office of Personnel Management (OPM) at which time the investigative program transferred to OPM. As a FIS Special Agent, she served as an Acting Supervisory Agent-in-Charge and Operations and Policy Analyst; selected to support such programs as the White House Presidential Transition, Integrity Assurance Recovery to investigate potentially falsified investigations, and the modernization of the investigative processes. In 2008, Ms. Wilder was named National Agent of the Year and assigned to support the Suitability and Security Joint Reform Team in the rewrite of the Federal Investigative Standards. In 2010, Ms. Wilder began her employment with the Office of the Director of National Intelligence (ODNI) as an Assessment Officer, and was later promoted to the Oversight Branch Manager within the Special Security Directorate of NCSC. In this role, she stood up and formalized the Oversight Branch to carry out the Security Executive Agent's oversight of personnel security programs across government to ensure effective and efficient processes, including the collection of government-wide performance metrics.
