Subject: Governmentwide Dismissal and Closure Procedures

As we approach the 2025-2026 winter season, the U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM) is issuing a revised Governmentwide Dismissal and Closure Procedures (Procedures). OPM's Procedures provide guidance on human resources flexibilities available to Federal agencies and employees when incidents, such as severe weather or other emergencies, cause disruptions to Government operations. The Procedures reflect the principle that the Federal Government's vital business must continue without compromising the safety of employees and the public during severe weather and other emergency situations.

Communicating Expectations

Federal agencies and employees must be prepared to respond immediately to an emergency, whether it be a severe weather condition, natural disaster, man-made disaster, or other type of hazard. It is important that supervisors and employees know and understand the operating status announcements in the Procedures. Each operating status announcement identifies which human resources flexibilities are available, such as unscheduled telework, unscheduled leave, leave without pay, etc. These agency policies and procedures will inform employees of what is expected of them when an operating status changes. In addition, agencies' written telework agreements and remote work agreements must comply with applicable Presidential directives, OPM and OMB Governmentwide policy guidance, and laws or other legal authorities.

Application of OPM Operating Status Announcements in the Washington, DC Area

In the Washington, DC area, OPM issues operating status announcements that apply to employees working in all Executive agencies with offices located inside the "Washington Capital Beltway" (the freeway that encircles the Nation's capital). In the event of an area-wide disruption, agencies should avoid taking independent action and instead follow OPM's operating status announcements and policies to facilitate appropriate coordination with municipal and regional officials and to reduce disruption of the highway and mass transit systems. This also ensures consistent treatment of impacted employees across Federal agencies. OPM posts announcements on the status of government operations in the Washington, DC, area on the OPM website. Additionally, the OPM DC Status mobile app allows employees to instantly view the current and active operating status for the Washington, DC, area.

Operating Status Announcements in Other Locations

Employees working in Federal agency offices located outside of the “Washington Capital Beltway” or outside the Washington, DC, area must follow the operating status announcements issued by their agency, using the methods commonly employed by their agency for this purpose. Federal field office heads generally make workforce status decisions for their agencies’ employees and report those workforce status decisions to their agencies’ headquarters. Agency-issued operating status announcements should include procedures concerning telework, arrival and departure times, and leave requests.

Additional Information

For additional information, agency headquarters-level human resources offices may contact OPM at paypolicy@opm.gov. Component-level human resources offices must contact their agency headquarters for assistance. Employees must contact their agency human resources offices for further information on this memorandum.
