Do not rely only on these change descriptions; this section is not an official statement of benefits. For that, go to Section 5 Benefits. Also, we edited and clarified language throughout the brochure; any language change not shown here is a clarification that does not change benefits.

Out of Area Services for dependents and members while traveling

Although our service areas are Miami Dade and Broward County, JMH Health Plan has arranged for benefit coverage for dependents that reside in out of service areas, and for members while they are traveling. This arrangement has been made through Beech Street Provider Network, which we call Premier Access Network. In most cases this will allow your dependents who are students attending school out of area, to receive in-network benefits, in either of the HMO Plans, High Option, or Low Option. For example, if your dependent goes to school in Georgia, you will complete a form included in your enrollment packet and fax or mail to the JMH Health Plan. When your dependent seeks medical services, you may call the number on the member ID card or go online to Beech Street's website to select a provider or to determine if the provider you wish to use participates in the Beech Street network.

This new arrangement will also permit members to access in-network benefits while traveling. For example, when you are traveling, and become ill, and need medical attention, you may call the number on your ID card or go to the Beech Street's website to locate a provider.

The JMH Health Plan identification card issued to you and your dependents will include the Beech Street logo which will allow you access to the Beech Street national network.
