Purpose

This document serves as an overview of the size and characteristics of the Federal civilian workforce, enabling stakeholders, analysts, and the general public access to commonly requested descriptive information.

The data covers the limitations and nature of the Federal employment data that the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) regularly posts on our website. It describes commonly used definitions and their implications. The document also presents data in the form of tables and graphs to offer some insight into the current and historical composition of the Federal Government.

Introduction

As a prerequisite to analyzing and interpreting the OPM's employment data, the validity and accuracy of inferences drawn from OPM statistics will depend heavily on these four items: (a) the coverage of the OPM's databases, (b) the various types of employment, (c) the basic trends in Federal employment, and (d) the common practices of the OPM Data Analysis Group (DAG).

Coverage

OPM houses a human resources database called the Enterprise Human Resources Integration (EHRI). Production data are typically released every month by agencies to OPM. "Status" data (cross-sections; used for employment analysis) are available one to two months after the end of each month. "Dynamics" data (all personnel actions; used for hiring and retirement analyses) requires more time to become available and usually takes approximately four months from the end of a particular month.

OPM data coverage is often equated to the Federal Executive civilian workforce. The data excludes a few major components of the Executive Branch (most notably the Postal Service and intelligence agencies) and includes some parts or components of both the Legislative and Judicial Branches. OPM EHRI data also excludes contractors and contract employees. For specific exclusions and inclusions, visit FedData on the OPM's website:

<http://www.opm.gov/feddata/html/sdminfo.asp>.

In addition to who is covered under the OPM data, it is helpful to distinguish what data is collected. The EHRI contain over 100 different variables or data elements, for each employee. The vast majority of these elements pertain strictly to employment. Items such as marital status and residence are not gathered. In accordance with the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), most of the OPM's data are public information, even some data at the individual level. 5 CFR 293.311 requires OPM to release record level data with certain exclusions. Visit <http://www.opm.gov/information-management/freedom-of-information-act/> for more information. Requests for general workforce data can be handled through FedStats@opm.gov. For the complete guide to what elements OPM data include, visit <http://www.opm.gov/policy-data-oversight/data-analysis-documentation/data-policy-guidance/#url=Data-Reporting-Guidance>.

Types of Employment

Each Federal employee has a particular set of variables that includes work schedule, type of appointment, tenure, and appointment authority. These variables dictate the “type” of employment and have many levels and definitions. Collectively these variables lead to six types of employment:¹

- All employees: this category includes all Federal employees.
- Permanent (P): this category includes all employees hired with no absolute end date.
- Full-time (FT): this category includes all employees working a 40-hour work week.
- Full-time Non-seasonal (FTNS): this category includes all employees working a 40-hour work week year-round.
- Full-time Permanent (FTP): this category includes all employees working a 40-hour work week with no absolute end date.
- Non-seasonal Full-time Permanent (NSFTP): this category includes all employees working a 40-hour work week year round with no absolute end date.

Each category carries different characteristics. (For example, the employment type affects count and salary statistics, which is the most commonly requested statistic.) To understand the magnitude of these differences, see TABLE 1. TYPES OF EMPLOYMENT.

TABLE 1. TYPES OF EMPLOYMENT

Naturally, the counts descend as the employment type becomes more specific. The broadest definition is all employees. The most restrictive is NSFTP; nonetheless, filtering to NSFTP omits around 230,000 employees, a relatively small portion of the two million plus employees in total. Salary, on the other hand, rises as the category becomes more specific. This increase is not attributable to part-time and non-seasonal employees working limited hours, because salary statistics are annualized. Recognizing the employment category on each OPM data request or report and understanding the differences among these categories is especially important when comparing data that have different employment filters.

Trends in Employment

In addition to the effect of the type of employment, the timing of employment has a strong influence on various statistics. Employment generally varies from year-to-year depending on a number of factors. Factors that are often overlooked include the predictable pattern hiring follows within a year. See FIGURE 1. SEASONALITY OF EMPLOYMENT and FIGURE 2. SEASONALITY OF SALARY to view the seasonal effects on employment and salary.

 Statistics for all types of employment from all quarters of FY2016

 Statistics for all types of employment from all quarters of FY2016

Although these charts examine only one fiscal year, the trends they display persist from year-to-year. As with employment type, observing the quarter from which OPM data came is important in making proper inferences.

Common Practices of DAG

Data Analysis Group (DAG) at OPM is the group responsible for producing statistics on Federal civilian employment. The way in which DAG approaches most data requests is important to note. Foremost, unless otherwise requested, DAG filters statistics to NSFTP employees. As can be seen in the figures above, NSFTP counts are the least susceptible to seasonal variation. There is normally an annual pay increase in January, so NSFTP salaries tend to be the most constant within a year. Because NSFTP salaries offer the most consistency, they tend to show the best quarter-to-quarter comparisons.

The data in the following sections are restricted to NSFTP. DAG always restricts the data to employees in pay status (employees currently receiving a paycheck). Lastly, the data in the section below represent the Fiscal Year Calendar, which, in the Federal Government, ends on the 30th of September. (For example, a column or row may be headed "FY2016,") For Status data, FY2016 represents the composition of the Federal Government on September 30, 2016. For Dynamics data (only the "Action" Tables and Graphs). FY2016 is the compilation of all personnel actions between October 1, 2015 and September 30, 2016. The methodology repeats for any Fiscal Year.

Data

Framing the Federal Population

To put in context just how large the Federal civilian workforce to the U.S. as a whole, the first data presented in this section compares the Federal population to the total U.S. population. TABLE 2. NSFTP POPULATION COMPARISON provides some basic statistics.

TABLE 2. NSFTP POPULATION COMPARISON

Federal counts restricted to non-seasonal full-time permanent employees from the fourth quarter since FY2012

POPULATION	FY2012	FY2013	FY2014	FY2015	FY2016

NSFTP FEDERAL EMPLOYEES	1,850,311	1,831,723	1,825,762	1,848,494	1,868,027
NSFTP FEDERAL EMPLOYEES PER 1,000 AMERICANS	5.893	5.793	5.731	5.760	5.781

The table shows the Federal NSFTP population and the total United States population since 2012². It is important to note that this table considers the entire U.S. population, not simply the labor force or workforce.

OPM houses only Federal civilian employment data. For total population figures, visit the Census Bureau website (the source of some information in Table 2) at <http://www.census.gov/>. For employment information, extending beyond the Federal civilian portion, visit the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) website at <http://www.bls.gov/>. The BLS tracks labor force participation, price indices, and similar information. Census and BLS data are in no way linked to OPM data.

² The U.S. population estimates came from the Census Bureau's July release: <https://www.census.gov/data/tables/2016/demo/popest/nation-total.html>

Commonly Requested Data, Fiscal Year 2016

Counts by agency are the most common data requests. The OPM databases consist of about 120 Federal agencies, ranging from single-digit to six-digit employee counts. TABLE 3 NSFTP AGENCY provides the counts and percentages of employees by agency for all the Cabinet level agencies. The table also has a category, "ALL OTHER AGENCIES" which contains all non-cabinet level agencies, a little less than 9% of the Federal employment. The percentage is the fraction of agency employees over total Federal employees. Cabinet-level agencies dominate the percentages, particularly the four military branches as well as the Department of Veterans' Affairs, the Department of Homeland Security, and the Department of Justice.

Geography is also a frequently requested data group. TABLE 5. NSFTP STATE shows counts and percentages of Federal employees by state. At the bottom of the table there is an Unspecified category, which denotes errors in reporting. This Unspecified category will appear again in many other data tables. It is important to note that the data reflect places of employment, not places of residence.

TABLE 7. NSFTP Core Based Statistical Areas (CBSA) provides counts of Federal employees by the ten largest (in terms of Federal employee count) CBSAs in the U.S. A CBSA is defined as “a geographic area having at least one urban area of population, plus adjacent territory that has a high degree of social and economic integration with the core as measured by commuting ties.”³ There are over 950 CBSA in the U.S.

TABLE 8. NSFTP AGE TREND illustrates the age distribution of Federal employees for the last five fiscal years the average age and the quartiles listed in order. The interpretation, for the 25th percentile of FY2016 is that, 25% of the Federal workforce is younger than 38.3 years of age; 75% of the workforce is older than 38.3. The interpretation is the same for the median, which is the 50th percentile, and for the 75th percentile.

In 2006, the Office of Management and Budget amended the reporting standards for race; it added an ethnicity indicator (either Hispanic/Latino or Not Hispanic/Latino) and modified the race categories. The results of these changes are captured in the categories on TABLE 11. NSFTP ETHNICITY AND RACE. Counts and percentages are included.

The education variable in the OPM databases has over twenty levels. TABLE 13. NSFTP EDUCATION shows a common grouping of those levels. Over 99% of Federal employees have obtained at least a high school degree; over half, at least a college degree. It is important to note that education is not an element regularly updated by agencies. Typically, it is recorded at the time of hire and updated only at the employees' initiative thereafter. As a result, OPM education statistics should be treated as lower bounds on the true educational attainment of the Federal workforce.

TABLE 15. NSFTP LENGTH OF SERVICE TREND illustrates the distribution of Federal employees' lengths of service (LOS) over the last five fiscal years. Table 15, has the average LOS and the quartiles listed in order. Using FY2016 as an example, 25% of the Federal workforce had been on board fewer than 5.8 years; 75% of the workforce had been on board for over 5.8 years. The interpretation is the same for the median, which is simply the 50th percentile, and for the 75th percentile.

TABLE 16. NSFTP SALARY TREND illustrates the distribution of Federal employees’ salary over the last five fiscal years. The calculations are based on the adjusted basic pay of employees, which is annualized and includes a locality adjustment. In addition to the average, the quartiles are listed in order. In FY2016 for the 25th percentile, 25% of the Federal workforce makes less than $54,617, while 75% makes more. The interpretation is the same for the median, which is simply the 50th percentile, and for the 75th percentile.

TABLE 17. NSFTP OCCUPATIONAL CATEGORY TREND shows the salaries in Table 16 broken out by occupational category (informally called PATCO) for the past five fiscal years. The categories are essentially Blue Collar versus White Collar, with White Collar broken out into five different categories. Occupation is by far the largest determinant of these categories, but other data elements do come into play. The statistics are interpreted as before and are again based on adjusted basic pay.
